

ECDIS Ltd Launch New Quick Course Booking Calendar

ECDIS Ltd have created a new online training calendar, showing all available dates for the key courses in their portfolio and an option to instantly book in seconds.

The online booking system has been a long time in development. It was created to allow complete transparency for all major courses by giving prospective students clarification on the availability and flexibility of the company's training schedule.

"We are unlike most training establishments as we are able to accommodate almost any of our courses on dates suitable for our students and clients. This has always proven to be a difficult concept to present on our website as people are used to colleges having fixed timetables. We frequently speak to people who think that because we don't have a specific date on our website, then we're not running a course for that week. Our New booking calendar has elevated this problem by clearly showing when we are running, and able to run courses."
