

eMaritime Group Announce ECDIS 4.0 Conference, July 2017 - "In 3 months will your ECDIS still be legal?"

eMaritime group have announced a new 1 day conference to help the industry better understand the transition to the new IHO ECDIS S52 4.0. Will your ECDIS be legal from 31st August? Meet the manufacturers, Express your concerns and opinions and get the answers.

"We have spoken to many of our shipping company clients over the last year about the ECDIS 4.0 upgrade, and listened to their concerns. There seems to be a general confusion and in some cases panic about the changes in August. So we created this one day conference to help clear up these issues and better informing company representatives to allow a smooth transition." - Mark Broster, eMaritime Group Managing Director.

The conference is free of charge and will be held at eMaritime Group's headquarters near Southampton on Friday 7th July. The main aim of the day is to inform those who are involved in their company's ECDIS systems to learn more about why the change is taking place, what the changes are and how to action the required changes.

There will be representatives from some of the leading ECDIS manufacturers on-hand to answer any questions, as well as speakers from hydrographics, navigation and ECDIS technicians.

If your company representative wishes to attend or want more information please visit www.eMaritimeGroup.com and select "eMaritime Events".
